

M | BIOLOGICAL STATION

2018 Summer Lecture Series

All talks are held at 7:30pm in the Marian P. and David M. Gates Lecture Hall at the University of Michigan Biological Station.

Thursday, June 28

All-Camp Lecture

How will climate change affect the Great Lakes Region?

Dr. David Karowe, Western Michigan University

Tuesday, July 10

Hann All-Camp Lecture in Ornithology

The Evolution of Beauty

Dr. Richard Prum, Yale University

Wednesday, July 11

Hann Research Seminar

Decadence and Duck Sex

Dr. Richard Prum, Yale University

Tuesday, July 31

Pettingill All-Camp Lecture in Natural History

The value of basic scientific research: How water fleas might teach us how to fight fungal infections in people

Dr. Meghan Duffy, University of Michigan

Wednesday, August 1

Pettingill Research Seminar

What can plankton tell us about the links between ecosystem & disease?

Dr. Meghan Duffy, University of Michigan

Wednesday, August 8

Bennett All-Camp Lecture in Plant
& Fungal Ecology

From green roofs to urban farms: The importance of cities for pollinator conservation

Dr. Rebecca Tonietto, University of Michigan-Flint

Thursday, August 9

Bennett Research Seminar

Urban agriculture supports diverse wild bee communities across shrinking cities: A tale from the Rust Belt

Dr. Rebecca Tonietto, University of Michigan-Flint

*University of Michigan Biological Station
9133 Biological Road
Pellston, MI 49769*

<https://lsa.umich.edu/umbs/>